
Contents

Preface xi

Technical Note and Abbreviations xv

1

The Skeptical Public 1

Confronting the Microwave Problem 3

Breakdown of Dialogue 8

Scope of Public Concern 14

I

THE PRIVATE YEARS, 1930–1967

2

The Thermal Solution 23

Radiowaves and Bioeffects 25

Wartime Technology and Postwar Problems 29

RF Bioeffects as a Military Problem 34

Tri-Service Research Program 38

3

The Search for Standards 44

Early Thoughts on Standards 45

Philosophy of the Military's 10mW/cm² Standard 48

Philosophy of ANSI's 10mW/cm² Standard 55

Philosophy of the USSR's RF Standard 63

Assessing the Validity of Standards 66

4

- The Athermal Dilemma 69
Athermal Effects and the Medical Profession 70
Athermal Effects and the Military 78
Soviet Research and Unexplained Effects 84
Barriers to Athermal Thinking 89

5

- The Moscow Embassy Crisis 92
Early Response to the Moscow Signal 93
Moscow Viral Study 97
Pandora 107
Conflicting Motivations 116

II

THE PUBLIC YEARS, 1967 TO THE PRESENT

6

- The Search for Government Solutions 121
Legislative Actions 122
Executive Actions 128
Question of Need 135
Shortcomings of the Regulatory Process 137

7

- Science, Scientists, and Science Policy 144
Objectives versus Priorities 145
Inconsistencies and Biases 152
Politics of Science 165
Ramifications 175

8

- Mass Media and the Public 177
Public Discovery of the RF Bioeffects Problem 178
Public Disclosure of the Moscow Signal 181
Spreading the Cover-up Story 189
Brodeur's Thesis 195
Public Education 203

9

Hearings and Litigation: The Last Resort 207

Litigation and Policy 207

Zoning Disputes 209

Alleged Personal Injury 218

Closing the Circle of Indecision 225

10

Science and Values 229

Science and Its Limits 230

Values 234

Recommendations 240

Notes 244

Bibliographic Note 268

Index 271