

Contents

| |
|---------------------------|
| Preface, vii |
| Mach Family Genealogy, xv |
| Chronology, xvii |
| Abbreviations, xix |

PART I (1838–1895)

| |
|---|
| 1. Childhood, 3 |
| 2. Young Scientist, 13 |
| 3. Philosophical Development, 26 |
| 4. Prague Professor, 38 |
| 5. Psychology, 47 |
| 6. Mach's Two Rectorates, 73 |
| 7. Theoretical Physics, 84 |
| 8. Mach Shock Waves, 105 |
| 9. Early Philosophical Influence, 116 |
| 10. Educational Theory and Textbooks, 132 |

PART II (1895–1916)

| |
|--------------------------------------|
| 11. Return to Vienna, 145 |
| 12. Philosophy of Science, 164 |
| 13. World Influence: Philosophy, 180 |

Contents

14. Mach vs. Boltzmann, Planck, Stumpf, and Külpe, 204
15. Politics, Russia, and Vladimir Lenin, 232
16. Mach and Einstein, 247
17. Did Mach Finally Accept Einstein's Theory of Relativity?, 260
18. Mach and Buddhism, 286
19. Mach's Influence on Early Logical Positivism and on Quantum Theory, 300

Appendix: Did Mach Finally Accept the Reality of Atoms?, 319

Notes, 325

A Select Bibliography, 361

Index, 377

