PART I. TABLE OF MULTIPLETS

	Page
I Introduction
1 Need for spectrum analysis.....	XII
2 Need for Multiplet Table.....	XII
3 Range of Present Table.....	XII
4 Importance of Multiplets.....	XII
5 First edition.....	XII
6 Arrangement of Table.....	XII
II The Multiplet Table—General Considerations
7 Astronomical Spectra.....	XII
8 Astrophysical importance of spectra, H-Zn	XIII
9 Elements Ga-Ba	XIII
10 Rare Earths.....	XIII
11 Elements Hf-U	XIII
III Basis of Selection
12 The Short Periods (H-A).....	XIII
13 Nebular spectra.....	XIII
14 First Spark Spectra.....	XIII
15 Infra-Red Solar Spectrum.....	XIII
16 The First Long Period (K-Kr).....	XIV
17 The Spectrum of Fe I	XIV
18 The Second Long Period (Rb-Xe).....	XIV
19 Forbidden Lines.....	XIV
IV General Arrangement of the Multiplet Table
20 Size of Present Revised Multiplet Table.....	XIV
21 Periodic Table.....	XIV
22 Headings.....	XVI
23 Ionization Potential.....	XVI
24 Grading of Analysis of Individual Spectra.....	XVI
25 Grading of List of Individual Spectra.....	XVI
26 Date of completion of Individual Spectra.....	XVII
V Arrangement of the Multiplets of Each Spectrum
27 Spectrum Analysis—general arrangement of multiplets.....	XVII
28 Multiplet Designations—quantum numbers.....	XVIII
29 Incomplete Multiplets.....	XX
30 Unclassified Lines.....	XXI
31 Special Remarks on Individual Spectra.....	XXI
VI Columns of the Table of Multiplets
32 Wave-Length.....	XXI
33 Symbols.....	XXII
34 Intensity.....	XXIII
35 Excitation Potentials.....	XXIV
VII Spectroscopic Notation
A Series Spectra
36 Series Notation and Limits.....	XXIV
37 Special Cases.....	XXV
B Complex Spectra
38 Regular Notation.....	XXVI
39 Numbered Levels.....	XXVI
VIII Special Notes on Individual Spectra
40 H, D, He II etc.....	XXVI
41 Fe I etc.....	XXVIII

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PART I. TABLE OF MULTIPLETS—Continued

	Page
IX Spectra Omitted from the R M T
42 Spectra of Astrophysical Interest—No Analysis.....	XXVIII
43 Analyzed Spectra without Astrophysical Importance.....	XXIX
44 Spectra for which nothing is known.....	XXIX
X Forbidden Lines
45 Basis of Selection.....	XXIX
XI Details of Publication
46 Revised Solar Identifications.....	XXXI
XII Bibliography—Description
47 References used for Wave-Length, Intensity and Analysis.....	XXXI
XIII Acknowledgments
Bibliography	XXXIX
Index by Pages	XLIII
Index by Elements	XLIV
Revised Multiplet Table
Body of Table.....	1-99
Forbidden Lines.....	100-110
