

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	References	4
2	The Heavy Ion Beam Probe Diagnostic and Applications	5
2.1	The Heavy Ion Beam Probe Diagnostic	5
2.1.1	General	5
2.1.2	HIBP Operating Principle	7
2.1.3	Fluctuation Measurements with the HIBP	24
2.1.4	HIBP Hardware and Technology	27
2.2	The HIBP Diagnostic System in T-10	33
2.2.1	Energy Range and Beam Current	33
2.2.2	Profiles Measurements and Verification of Trajectories	34
2.2.3	Toroidal Displacement of the Probing Beam	37
2.3	The HIBP Diagnostic in TJ-II	37
2.3.1	Energy Range and Beam Current	37
2.3.2	Obtaining of Profiles and Verification of Trajectories	38
2.3.3	Double Detector Line and Measurement of Particle Turbulent Flux and Plasma Rotation	39
	References	43
3	Radial Profiles of the Plasma Potential in Ohmic and L-Mode Plasmas	47
3.1	Ohmically Heated Plasmas in TM-4	47
3.1.1	Experimental Setup and Main Diagnostics on TM-4	47
3.1.2	Experimental Results Obtained on TM-4	48
3.1.3	Summary of Results in TM-4 for Plasma Potential and Confinement	52

3.2	Ohmic and ECR Heated Plasmas in T-10	52
3.2.1	Experimental Setup and Main Diagnostics on T-10	52
3.2.2	Low-Density and Low Magnetic Field Plasmas	53
3.2.3	Ohmic and ECR Heated Plasmas at Medium-Density and Medium Magnetic Field	55
3.2.4	Plasmas at High Magnetic Field	59
3.2.5	Density Dependence of the Plasma Potential	60
3.2.6	Velocities of $E \times B$ Drift and Plasma Turbulence Poloidal Rotation	64
3.2.7	Conclusions from the T-10 Experiments on the Link Between Plasma Potential and Energy Confinement	67
3.3	ECR and NBI Heating in TJ-II	67
3.3.1	Experimental Setup and Main Diagnostics	67
3.3.2	ECR Heated Plasmas	69
3.3.3	Plasma Potential Behavior in Experiments with ECRH Power Modulation	72
3.3.4	ECRH Experiments with Varying Magnetic Configurations	78
3.3.5	ECR and NBI Heated Plasmas	78
3.3.6	Comparison of Plasmas with Combined NBI and On- and Off-Axis ECR Heating	85
3.3.7	Sensitivity of Potential Profiles to the ECRH Power Deposition	88
3.3.8	Plasmas with Li-Coated Walls	90
3.3.9	Velocities of $E \times B$ Drift and Plasma Turbulence Poloidal Rotation Measured by HIBP	92
3.3.10	Conclusions from the TJ-II Experiments Concerning the Link Between the Plasma Potential, Collisionality and Energy Confinement	98
3.4	Modelling of the Plasma Potential	98
3.4.1	Determination of the Electric Field from the Radial Force Balance	98
3.4.2	Simulation of the Radial Electric Field in Stellarators	101
3.4.3	Simulation of the Radial Electric Field in T-10	105
3.4.4	Behavior of the Plasma Potential in Stellarators and Tokamaks	108
3.5	Common Properties of the Plasma Potential Between Tokamaks and Stellarators	112
	References	113

4	Characterization of the Quasicoherent Oscillations in the Plasma Potential	119
4.1	Introduction	119
4.2	Detection and Investigation of Geodesic Acoustic Modes in T-10	121
4.2.1	T-10 Experimental Setup	121
4.2.2	Observation of Plasma Potential Oscillations Induced by Geodesic Acoustic Modes	125
4.2.3	Characteristics of Oscillations Induced by Geodesic Acoustic Modes	128
4.2.4	Interaction of Geodesic Acoustic Modes with Broadband Turbulence	143
4.2.5	Temperature Dependence of the Geodesic Acoustic Modes Frequency	149
4.2.6	Radial Structure of the Geodesic Acoustic Mode	150
4.2.7	Discussion of Experimental Results. Overview and Comparison with Other Devices	151
4.2.8	Conclusive Remarks on Geodesic Acoustic Modes	154
4.3	Observation of Alfvén Eigenmodes on TJ-II	155
4.3.1	Experimental Setup	156
4.3.2	Experimental Observation of Alfvén Eigenmodes	156
4.3.3	Radial Localization of Alfvén Eigenmodes	160
4.3.4	Phase Characteristics of Alfvén Eigenmodes	162
4.3.5	Determination of the Poloidal Mode Number of Alfvén Eigenmodes	165
4.3.6	Dynamics of the Poloidal Rotation Associated with Alfvén Eigenmodes	167
4.3.7	Alfvén Eigenmodes and Turbulent Particle Flux	171
4.3.8	Radial Extent of Alfvén Eigenmodes	173
4.3.9	MHD Modeling for the Identification of Alfvén Eigenmodes	173
4.3.10	Dependence of the Frequency of Alfvén Eigenmodes on the Rotational Transform: Experiment and Modeling	177
4.3.11	Chirping Alfvén Eigenmodes	181
4.3.12	Concluding Remarks on Alfvén Eigenmodes	187
4.4	Detection and Investigation of Modes Induced by Suprathermal Electrons in TJ-II	187
4.4.1	Experimental Setup	187
4.4.2	Experimental Results	189
4.4.3	Mode Characteristics	189
4.4.4	Discussion and Summary	192

4.5	Long-Range Correlations of Plasma Potential TJ-II ECRH and NBI Plasmas	194
4.5.1	Experimental Observations	194
4.5.2	Discussion on Observations of Zonal Flows and Geodesic Acoustic Modes	196
4.6	Key Results of Our Investigations on Plasma Potential Oscillations in T-10 and TJ-II	198
	References	199
5	Evolution of the Plasma Potential During Transitions to Improved Confinement Modes	205
5.1	Plasma Potential Evolution with Edge Biasing in TJ-II and T-10	205
5.1.1	Experimental Conditions and Plasma Parameters	205
5.1.2	TJ-II Experimental Setup. Limiter Biasing	206
5.1.3	T-10 Experimental Setup. Electrode Biasing	207
5.1.4	Biasing-Induced Improved Confinement in TJ-II	208
5.1.5	Impurity Behavior in Biased Edge Plasmas	209
5.1.6	Evolution of the Electron Temperature and Density Profiles in Improved Confinement Regimes in TJ-II	210
5.1.7	Plasma Potential Evolution During Limiter Biasing	210
5.1.8	Link Between Edge Plasma Potential and Turbulent Transport During Biasing	214
5.1.9	Core-Edge Interplay During Biasing	215
5.1.10	Link Between the Plasma Potential and Density	216
5.1.11	Electrode Biasing Experiments on T-10	217
5.1.12	Discussion of Biasing Results	220
5.1.13	Conclusions from Biasing Experiments	222
5.2	Plasma Potential and Turbulence Dynamics During Spontaneous L-H Transitions in TJ-II	223
5.2.1	Experimental Setup	223
5.2.2	Evolution of the Plasma Potential During Confinement Transitions	224
5.2.3	Evolution of the Plasma Fluctuations and the Turbulent Particle Flux During Confinement Transitions	227
5.3	Evolution of the Plasma Potential During Spontaneous L-H Transitions in T-10	229
5.4	Conclusions	234
	References	234
	Conclusions	237