Preface
Executive Summary
1. OVERVIEW
Opening Remark and Overview of Japanese Fusion Materials Research Activities S.Ishino	1
Overview of the US-DOE Fusion Materials Program F.W.Wiffen	6
2. REVIEW OF THE PROGRESS
FFTF/MOTA Operation A.Ermi, M.L.Hamilton and F.A.Garner	15
Review of the Progress of Materials Research in the US since the Last Workshop F.A.Garner and D.S.Gelles	24
Structural Materials Development in the US	39
Progress of Materials Research in Japan	51
Alloy Development-Microstructural Research- S.Ohnuki Low Activation Ferritic Steels A.Kimura Fission/Fusion Correlation on Void Swelling in Austenitic Alloys N.Sekimura Graphite and Composite M.Iseki Small Specimen Techniques A.Okada Welds and Joints K.Abe Neutronics and Dosimetry T.Iguchi Irradiation Database (Specimen Database) Y.Kohno Calculation Studies Y.Katoh, Y.Kohn and A.Kohyama
MOTA 2B Status (US Side)	118
MOTA 2B Status (Japanese Side) T.Muroga	120
Fusion MOTA Dosimetry MOTA 1F (Cycle 10)	123

3. FUTURE DIRECTIONS OF IRRADIATION STUDIES AND TECHNIQUES

Establishing Irradiation Correlation using Fission Reactor with Improved Control M.Kiritani	131
Use of Facilities with Surrogate Spectra for Studies of Irradiation Effects in Fusion Materials F.A.Garner, L.R.Greenwood and H.L.Heinisch	146
Status of Instrumented In-Core Facilities at EBR-II W.K.Lehto	162

4. POST IRRADIATION EXPERIMENTS

Present Status of the Automated Tensile Machine and its Installation A.Kohyama and S.Sato	177
Availability of PIE Facilities and technical Supports in the US D.S.Gelles	190
Present Status of the Oarai-Branch IMR Tohoku University T.Shikama	195

5. PIE PLANNING FOR MOTA 2A SPECIMENS

Japanese Planing Including Transportation Irradiated specimens H.Matsui	197
--	-----

6. POTENTIAL AREAS FOR FUTURE COLLABORATION

Potential Areas for Future Collaboration from Japanese Side H.Takahashi	207
Potential Areas for Future Collaboration from the US Side	210

7. GENERAL DISCUSSION

General Discussion H.Matsui	211
--------------------------------------	-----

8. SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION

Session Summary	213
Closing Remarks S.Ishino	217
Agenda and Participants' List	218
